Dear Mr. Rossant:

It is a rewarding experience to study the rich reading material you sent on last week. I shall endeavor to get the ideas suggested by these materials organized in my mind in some coherent pattern before the meeting of the Task Force. Meanwhile, I am enclosing some rough notes and questions to indicate the direction of my thinking on the sensitive issues of confidentiality and accessibility mentioned in your letter of August 28th.

Although I presently think that the Task Force's recommendations on the composition of the Council are very good, I shall reexamine them as you suggest in the postscript to your letter.

The details as to my compensation set forth in the second paragraph of your letter are most acceptable, and I have no suggestions as to the timing of the payment of the honorarium.

With all good wishes,

Sincerely,

Roger J. Traynor
