

1-1-2005

Magnificent Constitutionality

Gregory Hobbs Hon.

Follow this and additional works at: https://repository.uchastings.edu/hastings_environmental_law_journal

Part of the Environmental Law Commons

Recommended Citation

Gregory Hobbs Hon., Magnificent Constitutionality, 11 Hastings West Northwest J. of Env'tl. L. & Pol'y 181 (2005)
Available at: https://repository.uchastings.edu/hastings_environmental_law_journal/vol11/iss2/8

This Poem is brought to you for free and open access by the Law Journals at UC Hastings Scholarship Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in Hastings Environmental Law Journal by an authorized editor of UC Hastings Scholarship Repository. For more information, please contact wangela@uchastings.edu.

Politicians dither while people wither,
 where are the men and women humble enough to lead with the will to follow,
 where is community?

Magnificent Constitutionality

By The Honorable
 Gregory Hobbs

The state of being free
 is founded on the land itself,
 air to breathe,
 water conserved conscientiously,
 a place for all citizens and fellow denizens.

If an ancient tree cannot be,
 Nor salmon in the falls,
 Nor tortoise to the desert,
 Nor sage upon the open range,
 Nor can we.

These rights we hold to be alienable
 if not exercised frequently and expressly:
 To refrain from the pursuit of power,
 building others up instead of tearing down;
 To enjoy the blessings of the earth,
 without waste or desecration;
 To have sufficient space
 for cultivating plants, animals, healthy families;
 To dispense munificence,
 as a matter of the spirit not as an article of commerce;
 To generate energy, art, intellect,
 working and playing with and for each;
 To love and be loved,
 without abuse, joyously, unconditionally;
 To do our best
 to share with feeling our magnificent constitutionality;

We demand nothing,
 we command less,
 praying for guidance
 we contribute and receive.

