Dear Mr. Fremstad:

Only because I was absorbed these past two weeks with an unremitting grind did I delay in acknowledging your very nice letter of the 9th of April with which you enclosed your piece on Press Freedom.

It is not often that I come upon a piece of such extraordinarily high quality, not only in the accuracy of the reporting but in the clarification of a question of public interest. It is evident that you brought a great deal of thought to the job, and I deeply appreciate the intelligence and industry that went into it.

With all good wishes,

Sincerely yours,

Roger J. Traynor

Dear Justice Traynor:

It took me longer than I had planned,
but I at last published the results of our interview.

I appreciate your time and courtesy. I am among those who view your venture as a noble one, and I wish you every success at it.

I am also sending a copy to Mr. Rossant at the Twentieth Century Fund. He was very cooperative in sending me a wealth of background information.

Yours truly,

Lee Fremstad
